1. GENERAL. The United States Air Force (USAF) Worldwide Menu sets a cyclic plan for providing nutritious meals in Airmen dining halls. Its planning is based on USAF food service management policies in AFR 146-7, nutrition standards directed by the Surgeon General in AFR 160-95, authorized food items listed in the Federal Stock Catalog, C8900-SL, AFM 146-12, Armed Forces Recipe Service, Volume I and volume II, and USAF Minimum Menu Standards listed below.

a. The cyclic plan is not a menu that reappears at regular and identical days of the week--week after week. It is this kind of menu monotony that the cyclic menu pattern avoids. In addition to helping avoid monotony in menu planning, the cyclical menu has other operational advantages to include:

(1) Facilitating flexibility.

(2) Forecasting requirements for logistics.

(3) Purchasing requirements from approved sources.

(4) Production planning.

(5) Service efficiency.

(6) Training scheduling and consistency.

b. The cyclic plan is the basis for USAF food service management. Authorized local adjustments to this menu must follow the guidelines established in AFRs 146-7 and 160-95; AFM 146-12; C8900-SL; and the Air Force minimum menu standards. Base food service managers must localize this menu for orderly implementation.

c. The computerized cyclic plan developed at HQ AFESC has potentially 99 menus. In the plan menus 01-30 provide the core 30-day plan of the cycle. The remaining menus provide seasonal, brunch/supper, special holiday and ethnic planning. The core 30-day plan is repeated on specific calendar days. Refer to the calendar of serving days on each menu.

2. OVERVIEW OF MAJOR REVISIONS. Changes in the CY 88 Worldwide Menu support SIMS implementation of the menu, military nutrition initiatives, reduced workload based on AF Minimum Menu Standards, and rotates unique B-ration items. The changes are as follows:

a. Prior to the computerized reporting of the cycle menu every item served on the menu was not printed. Based on worldwide implementation of the Services Information Management System (SIMS) for food service it is necessary to consider the full menu. Thus this CY 88 menu totally plans variety and balance in accordance to the mandatory minimum menu standards. The computerized menu has the potential to report 99 different numbered menus. However, at this point not all 99 menus are programmed. The 30-day cyclic menus are numbered 01-30. They feature breakfast selections which change daily, standard breakfast selections which do not change daily, lunch, short-order, dinner, and midnight menus. Ethnic and holiday lunch menus begin with menu number 61, New Year's Day, and ends with menu 75, Christmas. Menu 76 begins the suggested brunch/supper menus for optional use.

b. Nutrition initiatives are supported by the daily programming of whole grain cereals at breakfast; whole grain breads at each meal; canned fruit, fresh fruits, and juices at each meal; the reduced programming of cakes with icing; and the reduced programming of recipes using soup and gravy base. The salad bar "recipe" has been expanded to feature more fruits and vegetables. The entrees include a wide variety fish, poultry, and veal recipes which are baked, broiled, and occasionally fried.

c. The change which supports reduced workload is the programming of the same salad and desserts at both lunch and dinner. This planning resulted from feedback on previous MURs.

d. Five unique "B" ration items are programmed for menu rotation on an average of twice weekly during each 30-day cycle. Rotation is mandatory. Requisitions must be made as the items are programmed for rotation. Should nonavailability of the items preclude rotation, the "A" ration, recipe programmed should be used. The rotation plan is as follows:

Menus	Meals	Recipes	"B" Ration Items	Issues
01 07 14 21	Breakfast	Rotate "B" Ration recipe L001 for "A" ration recipe L002.	8905-01-086-0395 Bacon, precooked, Sliced	.5000
06	Lunch	Rotate "B" ration recipe L026 for "A" ration recipe L136	8905-00-753-6432, Shrimp, dehydrated, cooked	.2500

Menus	Meals	Recipes	"B" Ration Items	Issues
12	Lunch	Rotate "B" ration recipe L025 for "A" ration recipe L129	8905-00-823-7095 Fish Squares, dehydrated	.2500
17	Breakfast	Rotate "B" ration recipe L003 "A" ration recipe L091	8905-00-126-4020 Luncheon Meat	.5000
24	Lunch	Rotate "B" ration recipe L018 for "A" ration recipe L080	8905-00-023-8284 Ham Chunks	.2500

The above rotation must be implemented as the "B" ration items are available locally.

3. MANDATORY MINIMUM DAILY MENU STANDARDS.

a. General.

(1) Menus planned for weekdays, weekends and all holidays will adhere to the standards.

(2) Menu combinations offered at each meal will provide variety and contrast in texture, flavor, and color.

(3) Low fat milk will be the primary milk. Whole milk, skim milk, buttermilk and sherbet will be offered to the degree required by customer requests.

b. Breakfast Meals. Breakfast meal patterns will include the following:

Fruit and juice--assure citrus Cereal
Milk
Main Dish: Eggs to order, breakfast meat, griddle cakes or french toast
Potato or potato substitute
Bread, jam or jelly, and spreads
Beverage

(1) A choice of orange juice, another juice and fruit (preferably fresh) will be offered daily. Fruit ades or drinks will not be substituted for juice.

(2) A choice of cereals, including hot and ready-to-eat cold cereals, will be offered daily.

(3) Eggs-to-order, including omelets, will be offered daily.

(4) Griddle cakes, French toast, and/or waffles, will be offered daily.

(5) Bacon and at least one other breakfast meat will be offered.

(6) Potato and/or a potato substitute, such as hominy grits, will be offered.

(7) Toast and at least one breakfast pastry, doughnut, muffin, or coffee cake, will be offered.

(8) Butter and margarine will be offered. Syrup, and a choice of two or more spreads (jam, jelly, peanut butter, etc.) will be offered.

(9) Milk, coffee, and tea will be offered. Cocoa will be offered to the degree required by customer requests.

(10) Continental style breakfast or a breakfast bar may be offered daily in addition to the regular breakfast to the degree required by customer requests.

c. Lunch and dinner meals (excluding short-order meals). Lunch and dinner meal patterns will include the following:

Appetizer or soup
Main dish
Gravy or sauce
Potato or substitute
Vegetables
Salad
Bread, with spreads
Dessert
Beverage

(1) At least one soup will be offered daily. The type offered will vary from noon to evening meal and from day to day.

(2) At least two entree choices will be offered every customer. A choice of three entrees is desirable; no more than four choices are recommended.

(3) One or more appropriate sauce, gravy, or garnish will be planned to accompany the entrees.

(4) A choice of potato and/or potato substitutes will be offered at each meal to complement the entrees.

(5) Two or more cooked vegetables will be offered at each meal; one of which will be a dark green or deep yellow vegetable. A maximum of four vegetable choices will be offered.

(6) A salad selection of at least three but not more than eight salads will be offered at each meal; one will be a raw leafy green vegetable type salad, and one will be a fruit. The salad selections may be offered on a salad bar.

(7) Vinegar and oil, a variety of three low calorie dressings, and at least one other highly acceptable dressing will be served at each meal. Additional salad dressings will be offered when appropriate to salad selections.

(8) A selection of not less than three sliced breads and a selection of either hot rolls, muffins, or biscuits will be offered at each meal. The sliced breads will include white, rye, and whole wheat breads.

(9) Butter and margarine will be offered at each meal.

(10) At least three, but not more than eight, different types of desserts will be offered at each meal. One dessert must be a fruit (canned or fresh). Cookies may be served as an accompaniment to ice cream, pudding, gelatin, or fruit when these items are offered as dessert choices, or can be offered separately if they are baked in-house.

(11) Milk, juice, soft drinks, including carbonated beverages, coffee and tea will be offered at each meal.

d. Short-Order Meals. Short-order meal patterns will include the following:

Soup or chili
Cook-to-order sandwiches or entree
Potato or substitute
Condiments
Salad
Dessert
Beverage

(1) Soup or chili con carne will be offered daily.

(2) Hamburgers, cheeseburgers, and at least two other short-order type entrees; e.g., taco, submarine sandwich, or pizza, will be offered daily.

(3) French fried potatoes and potato or corn chips will be offered daily.

(4) Accompaniments and condiments such as sliced tomatoes, onions, and pickles, lettuce leaves, catsup, mustard, relish and salad dressing will be offered at each meal.

(5) Butter and margarine will be offered. Choice of two or more spreads (jam, jelly, etc.) will be offered at each meal.

(6) Offer the same salad and salad dressing choices as those offered on the main line.

(7) Offer the same dessert choices as those offered on the main line.

(8) Milk, juice, soft drinks, including carbonated beverages, coffee, and tea will be offered.

(9) A choice of ice cream products, such as sundaes, soft serve, yogurt and/or milk shakes, will be available.

e. Midnight Meal. The type of meal served may be determined by customer preference; e.g., all dinner menus (at least two entree choices), combination breakfast and dinner menus (see below), or all breakfast menus (with at least two breakfast meat choices).

(1) For the all breakfast menu, cook-to-order breakfast items will be offered, including meats, eggs, pancakes or french toast, and a breakfast bar with juice, fruit, etc.

(2) For the combination menu, at least one cook to order type of entree such as steak, or hamburger or a hot meat sandwich such as hot corned beef will be offered.

(3) One potato, or potato substitute, will be offered on all midnight meals.

(4) Except for on the all breakfast midnight meals, at least one vegetable type and one fruit type salad, will be offered; at least two choices of salad dressings will be offered.

f. Brunch (Breakfast-Lunch). The normal daily short-order breakfast will be served. Special items will replace the normal items; e.g., blueberry or peach pancakes with cinnamon or peach sauce in lieu of plain pancakes; sugared french toast puff in lieu of french toast, etc.

(1) At least two cook-to-order entrees, such as steak, Canadian bacon, veal cutlet, etc., will be offered.

(2) One special hot bread or roll will be offered.

(3) At least one vegetable type and one fruit type salad will be offered. At least two choices of salad dressings will be offered.

(4) At least one high cost dessert and one fruit type dessert, in addition to the special sweet roll or pastry being offered, will be served.

g. Supper (Lunch-Dinner). The supper meal will provide a variety of choices from each food group. A choice of appetizers will also be offered. This meal has the highest reimbursement rate for meals offered in the dining hall; therefore, care must be taken that customers receive adequate value.

(1) Offer at least two appetizers and two soups, to include low calorie selections.

(2) A choice of three different cakes or pastries is desirable; no more than three are recommended.

(3) The entree choices will include a highly acceptable balanced combination between low, medium and high cost items.

(4) A choice of potatoes and/or potato substitutes will be offered.

(5) Three or more cooked vegetables will be offered; one of which will be a dark green or deep yellow.

(6) Offer a choice of three but not more than eight salads; one of which must be a raw, leafy , green vegetable type and one must be a fruit type. Salads may be offered on a salad bar.

(7) Offer not more than eight desserts; one of which must be canned or fresh fruit.

h. Sensible Limited Intake Menu (SLIM) Pattern. SLIM annotations are not provided on this menu as previously provided for identifying selections for reduced calorie meal plans. Annotations may be made locally based on the following:

(1) Reference will be made to AFM 146-12, A-G-26, Guidelines For Calories, when annotating local menus.

(2) To provide variety and reduced saturated fat, fish and poultry should be planned daily.

(3) A non-fried main dish will be offered on each menu and an entree without sauce or gravy .

(4) Smaller portions should be available upon request (without cost adjustment for cash patrons).

(5) The salad bar will include a tossed green salad.

(6) Dessert selections will include lower calorie choices such as fresh fruit, low fat yogurt, sherbet, gelatin without topping and plain cake.

(7) Drain excess fat from foods after cooking.

i. Special Meals, or ethnic meals, will be offered at least once per month. Refer to menu 61-75 for suggestions. At least one highly acceptable entree will be offered, in addition to the ethnic menu.

j. Holiday Meals should include the traditional foods, supplemented by regional foods and appetizers, and by decorative extras as feasible; e.g., cherry pie for Washington's Birthday, Italian food for Columbus Day, turkey for Thanksgiving, etc.

4. NUTRITION NOTES. Nutrition notes provide general information to support and influence food service managers in their menu planning which localizes the USAF Worldwide menu. Reference to these notes will give ideas for adjustments to the worldwide menu, and will help determine the appropriateness of the adjustments to general health promotions. The notes should be retained for future use.

a. Routine Menu Planning. The objective of routine menu planning is to form a basis for food buying and production. Ideally it brings to customers a variety of nutritious, appealing selections. To help with your planning, it is useful to consider groups of similar products. The USDA "Basic Four Food Groups" provide the foundation for the planning in the Worldwide Menu. The broad groups are designated on the basis of similar nutrition composition of the foods within the groups. The nutritional adequacy of localized menus can be assured by adjusting within the framework of the basic four food groups. Each time a change is made to the Worldwide Menu, the replacement item should be from the group as the item deleted. Locally, it is the responsibility of food service management to balanced meals based on the four basic food groups. It is then the responsibility of the patron to make appropriate decisions as to what they will eat. Application of the USAF minimum menu standards will help food service managers meet their responsibility.

b. The USDA "Basic Four Food Groups".

FOOD GROUP	FOOD PRODUCTS
Milk	Milk, yogurt, cheddar cheese, pudding, ice cream, cottage cheese.
Meat	Meat, fish, poultry, eggs, cheese, dried beans, dried peas, peanut butter.
Fruit-Vegetables	All fruits, all vegetables, juices of fruits, juices of vegetables.
Grain	Breads, pastas, cereals crackers.

c. Special Menu Planning. Special menu planning for dietary considerations is not the responsibility of food service management but is the responsibility of the customers. The following special menu demands can be met based on selections available on the Worldwide Menu.

(1) Vegetarianism. The Worldwide Menu supports a vegetarian diet by providing a variety of ordinary foods, and by using whole-grain cereals and breads, a variety of legumes and nuts, and plenty of fruits and vegetables. Vegetarianism is a meatless eating regime that exhibits a variety of application. For example, some vegetarians include dairy products and eggs in their diets while others abstain from the use of all foods of animal origin.

(2) Religious Restrictions. This menu supports the religious restriction that is based on non-use of pork by planning at least one of the three entrees offered at lunch and dinner to be other than pork. The same planning supports non-use of beef. Non-use of any animal flesh is supported based on vegetarianism.

(3) Healthy Heart Awareness. This menu supports guidelines of the American Heart Association for a healthy heart by planning recipes using vegetable oils, and by featuring daily lunches and dinner selections of fish, poultry or veal. Also, two percent milk is offered as the primary milk at each meal, and the salad bar featured at lunch and dinner includes a large variety of fruits and vegetables. Refer to SL87-16 for further healthy heart criteria information.

(4) Calorie Consciousness. The overall caloric value of this menu is kept to a minimum by limiting the frequency of gravies, sauces, rich desserts, regular salad dressings, and fried foods. Managers must assure preparation and service of the planned recipes in accordance with the standardized recipes. Baked or broiled foods are featured more often than their fried counterparts. Casserole dishes are also planned, but they are frequently not adaptable to preparation for the reduction of caloric values. Casseroles are adaptable to SLIM items by offering smaller serving portions without a price change for cash patrons. Smaller portions should be the option of the customer. For further guidelines on calories, refer to SL 85-5. For further guidelines on Sensible Limited Intake Menus, refer to paragraph 3. The calories reported in this menu were computer processed at Hq AFESC based on recipe data in the Worldwide Menu data base. The calorie information per portion in undergoing extensive verification at this time. Thus, note, some values may not compare with values from sources you have used previously.

5. MENU MANAGEMENT GUIDELINES. These menu management guidelines provide checks for local managers to use before implementing the USAF Worldwide Menu. Local managers must check the Worldwide Menu to determine its appropriateness to their operation. Factors which may affect the appropriateness of the Worldwide Menu as planned include your oven capacity, refrigerator space, number and size of steam-jacketed kettles and steamers, and availability and capacity of mixers. Regional influences on eating habits at your geographical location may dictate selection changes. Labor hours available and the efficiency and skill of assigned personnel are also important. The ability to distribute work among the various areas of preparation is of prime importance in meeting a time schedule while maintaining the morale of the personnel. These are factors which will certainly be locally unique Air Force worldwide. Prior to implementation, check the Worldwide Menu for the following:

a. Check for acceptability of recipe selections. The menu should have a predominance of familiar and well accepted items, with the inclusion of new and less liked items spread throughout. As menu items are deleted and added, attention should be directed to the daily recap to also delete and add recipe ingredients. This follow-through is important to your forecast and your requisitioning. Inasmuch as this is a cyclic menu, all menu changes must be processed in the AFP 146-16, Recapitulation of Menu Issues, each time the cycle is repeated.

b. Check the programmed issue (the number of servings). Compare it to your historical headcount and selection ratio data. This step is important to providing sufficient quantities of the recipes planned. The programmed issues expressed in the AF Worldwide Menu are based on a headcount of 100 and food preference data collected by MURs. When .5000 appears on the menu it equals 50 percent of a recipe, or 50 servings. 1.5000 equals 150 percent of a recipe or 150 servings. Local issues may be developed by using either of the following procedures.

(1) The first procedure is to change the issue of each recipe on the menu by putting in the number of recipe servings you feel are more appropriate. The follow-through to changing the number of recipe servings is to also change the recipe ingredient quantities on the daily recap. When changing the recap, reference to AFP 146-12, the Recipe Service, is essential. The Recipe Service identifies specific ingredients in the recipes you are changing. Example: Change recipe A00549, Assorted Fruit, from a programmed issue of .50 (50 servings) to 1.20 (120 servings). The simple formula to use is:

$$\frac{\text{Programmed Issue x Servings Required}}{\text{Programmed Servings}} = \frac{.50 \times 120}{50} =$$

Since 1.20 is an increase of .70, follow through as follows: Change the recipe ingredient amount on the daily recap. Multiply the increased amount by the ingredient issue reported to get the increased issue. Then add the original issue plus the increased issue to get the new requirements. For example:

10.80 lbs apples for .50 issue of A00549 x .70 (percent of increase found by subtracting .50 from 1.20 7.56 lbs increase

10.80 lbs + 7.56 lbs = 18.36 lbs apples for 1.20 issue.

NOTE: Issue is the generic percentage (a number) used to change standardized recipe amounts.

(2) The second procedure is to change the menu forecast of the Worldwide Menu to suit your forecast. To do this, first divide your expected headcount by 100 to determine your forecast relationship to the Worldwide Menu. Multiply the relationship of your forecast by the recipe issues of the Worldwide Menu. The Worldwide Menu's feeding forecast is 100. If your feeding forecast is 325, then your relationship by which you would multiply all issues is 3.2500 (325 ÷ 100 = 3.25). If your feeding strength is 80, then your multiplier is .8000 (100 ÷ 80 = .80).

(3) SIMS bases must follow the automated selection ratio procedures. Instructions for the automated procedures are provided as a part of the SIMS implementation briefing.

c. Check your AF Form 1119 as it relates to cumulative gains and losses, the BDFA, and the cost of items on the menu. Based on the analysis of your gains and losses, the rise and fall of food prices and the BDFA, further recipe changes may be warranted. This Worldwide Menu was planned based on the Feb 87 BDFA of $3.5681.

d. Check the availability of the foods programmed in the menu. This check is important prior to implementation of the menu so as to establish requirements for new items. This check is also important thoughout the use of the menu due to the many and frequent unavoidable supply line problems which can impact on the continued availability of items. Supply driven menu changes must be noted on the daily recap for ordering and production information. Examples of supply diver changes are forced substitutions, forced issue and not-in-stock (NIS). NOTE: NIS may be further explained by use of codes. Insist that commissary personnel annotate the appropriate explanations for changes on your 287. Installation Menu Board Meetings provide the formal forum for food service and commissary coordination of supply driven and other changes to the menu, and for discussing forecasts for the menu.

e. Check the workability of the menu to determine if your resources are adequate to prepare the items planned. The available equipment and required numbers and experienced personnel presents one of the major problems of food service. Changes to this menu must consider the need to maintain high food standards. Certain items and meals may have to be avoided based on equipment and/or personnel shortcomings.

6. CALENDAR OF SERVING DAYS. The Worldwide Menu is a collection of cyclic and special menus. The computer processed menus which make up the Worldwide Menu are numbered 01-84, and consist of different meals for serving on designated months and days. The Calendar of Serving Days printed on the top of each menu indicates the specific month and day the numbered menu is programmed for use.

a. Menu 01-30 are cyclic. They offer breakfast, standard breakfast, lunch, short order, dinner, midnight and carry-out meals.

b. Menus 61-75 are recommended for ethnic and holiday use as follows:

EVENT (Ethnic Group)	MENU NUMBER
New Year's Day	61
Soul Food	62
Oriential	63
President's Day	64
St Patrick's Day (Irish)	65
Easter	66
Mexican	67
All American (4th July)	68
French	69
Columbus Day (Italian)	70
German	71
Mid-Eastern	72
Polynesian	73
Thankgsgiving Day	73
Christmas Day	75

c. Menus 61-74 are not complete all day menus as are other menus in the Worldwide Menu. Special note should be made to incorporate these special menus into your local cycle for the specific events based on local preferences. Menus 61-74 have been incorporated in the Worldwide Menu to provide for preplanning and subsistence forecasting. You are not limited to only serving these special event meals.

d. Menus 76-81 are suggested brunch/supper menus.

7. AUTHORIZED FOOD ITEMS. The Federal Supply Catalog, C8900-Stock List, lists the foods which are used for troop issue. The foods which are included in this menu have been chosen from those listed in the catalog. Installation Menu Boards should choose from the foods listed in the catalog when adjusting the Worldwide Menu.

a. Seafoods. Stock levels of the most acceptable seafoods are normally available in all Defense Personnel Support Center (DPSC) supply points. Installation Menu Boards may adjust their menus to take advantage of other authorized seafoods. Also, fresh and frozen fish and shellfish available within the servicing DPSC/DSO area, may be used even though they may not be specifically listed in the Federal Supply Catalog.

b. Dairy Products. Fresh lowfat (2%) milk is to be used as the primary beverage milk. Whole, skim and lowfat milk are to be used as beverages only. Additional types of fresh milk which may be used for beverages are buttermilk, and chocolate flavored milk. Dry cream substitute is authorized for use as a coffee whitener. Non-fat dry milk is to be used for cooking. Evaporated milk may not be used in the preparation of foods for dining hall use.

c. Fruits and Vegetables. Installation Menu Boards may use information contained in the DPSC news bulletins to substitute authorized fresh fruits and vegetables that are more available locally, have higher acceptability, and are affordable.

d. Fats. Shortening compound is to be used as an ingredient in cakes, hot breads, cookies, pie crusts, and for sauteing . Butter prints are to be used to make cake frostings and fillings and cream sauce. Butter pats are to be used as a spread and should be kept chilled on the serving line. Food service activities are required to use at least 30 percent of the total butter/margarine requirements as commercial market butter. The remaining 70 percent may be requisitioned as donated surplus butter and margarine as desired. When ready-to-serve butter pats are served, the additional cost may not be used in calculating the BDFA. RAMPS 2.2221b requirement per 100 translates as follows:

Butter, ADCOP = .6667 lbs
Butter, Surplus = 1.5555 lbs
Total = 2.2222 lbs

8. GLOSSARY OF MENU TERMS.

a. Cal/Recipe Serving. The calories per recipe serving are the approximate 1/100 calorie value of a recipe as calculated by computer analysis of the standardize recipes in AFM 146-12, Vol 1, May 1980.

b. Recipe. The Worldwide Menu selection identified by a Recipe and Menu Pricing System (RAMPS) recipe number. Recipe numbers ending in "20" or "49" identify AF variations in the Worldwide Menu for use in Air Force dining facilities. These recipes have been incorporated in the RAMPS and SIMS recipe files.

c. Served on the following days: This menu note gives the specific days during the calendar year when a certain menu is programmed for use.

d. Programmed Issue. This number is the percentage of the standardized recipe that is planned. .5000 is 1/2 recipe or 50 percent of a recipe.

e. Local Issue. This is space on the menu for you to adjust the recipe issues based on customer selection data for your facility.

f. Nomenclature. The name for the recipe is given under this heading.
